COUNTRY TRADITIONS IS BACK IN ARDMORE

By Maxine B Jones, Ocoee, Tennessee

Country Traditions Antiques is back, and their new location is 27578 Main St., Ardmore, Ala. Donna and Stan Thomas, who owned the previous Country Traditions just a few miles down the road, have been closed a couple of years, and moved back home, built a house and a big red barn just for their business. Donna said, "There's two red barns, so look for the gate at the end of the road, and you will be at the right place."

Country Traditions is back just in time for the holidays, and will be offering more great finds from country primitives, antique furniture and accessories, collectible Santas, braided rugs, throws, table squares and blankets, beautiful curtains, pillows, dolls, candles (battery and soy), greenery, framed prints, lamps, and chairs including camelback, wingback and settees. For outdoors they will have benches, wind chimes, wooden lamps, chandeliers and more country decor. Plus, they are the only retailer south of Kentucky for "Town and Country Furnishings"! There's just so much to see, and there will be more over the next few months as they buy on their picking excursions. Donna said orders are always welcome, so watch for items often posted on FaceBook, and let them know if you want to purchase them.

Donna, Stan and family are excited to open their new shop, a dream come true at their home, and they will be open on Friday and Saturdays from 10-4. If you're in town on another day, call for an appointment, and the gate will be open for you. You will be seeing more of this new-renewed business in the coming months. Be sure to stop in and welcome Donna and her daughter Becka, who are usually in the shop, and let them know you read about them in the Busy Bee Trader. Wishing you a very happy and Blessed New Year from the Thomas family.

Happy New Year from Donna, Stan & family!

CARTERSVILLE GLASS SHOW ON JANUARY 20-21

Mark your calendar for the Cartersville Glass Show on Jan. 20-21 at the Cartersville Civic Center in Cartersville, Georgia. The Civic center is located at 425 West Main St. This long-running show of 10-plus years will focus on Depression Glass, as well as a lot of other fine quality antique glass. There will be numerous vendors, and all ready to sell their beautiful selections of glass they have on display.

The Cartersville Glass Show is a private show - vendors are vetted, so you will see some exceptional specimens of Depression glass, elegant glass, Mid Century glass, as well as great pieces of American pottery. The cost for entry is $6 and covers both days. If you bring a copy of their ad in this Busy Bee or copy of their card, you will get $1 off your entry fee. This show is attended by hundreds each year, and they would love to double the attendance this year. They ask you share the dates and extend an invitation to your family and friends to attend this great show. It will be one of the first held in 2024, and a good way kick off a great year of picking and collecting. For more information call Jodi Uthe at (319)-939-3837.

RECIPE: Slow Cooker Pork Shoulder with Peach-White Wine Sauce

For the Pork Shoulder

4-5 pound pork shoulder
1/3 cup brown sugar
1/3 cup kosher salt

For the Peach Sauce

2 cups sliced peaches, frozen or fresh, cut into 1-inch pieces
2 cups dry white wine or Vermouth
2 1/2 tablespoons rice wine vinegar
1/2 cup granulated sugar
2 sprigs thyme
1 tablespoon grainy mustard

Rub the pork: Combine the sugar and salt in a small bowl. Cut a crosshatch pattern into the fat cap of the pork. Rub the sugar/salt mixture all over the pork. Wrap tightly in plastic wrap. Place on a large plate and refrigerate overnight.

Cook the pork: remove the pork from the plastic. Brush away excess rub.

Place into a 4 or 5-quart slow cooker. Cook on low for 8 hours.

Remove the pork to a cutting board and tent with foil. Pour the juices into a measuring cup or fat separator. Skim off the fat or use a spoon to remove the fat from the juices.

Reserve 2 tablespoons juice. Place the juice, peaches, wine or Vermouth, 2 tablespoons of the vinegar, sugar, and thyme into a small saucepan. Bring to a simmer over medium-high heat and cook until reduced to a thick sauce, about 20-30 minutes. Remove from the heat and stir in the remaining vinegar and the mustard.

Serve the pork topped with the peach sauce. Save extra pork for other uses.

Notes: It's easy to adapt this recipe to the pressure cooker function on your Instant Pot. Just cut the pork into 4-6 pieces before applying the rub. Place in the Instant Pot and set to the "meat" setting for 45 minutes. Allow the Instant Pot to depressurize naturally. Shred the meat then follow the directions as listed to make the sauce.

RECIPE: Easy Sausage Balls from Scratch

2 cups all-purpose flour • 1 tablespoon baking powder
3/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup (1 stick) unsalted butter, cut into cubes and chilled
1 pound breakfast sausage (mild or hot, your choice)
1 pound cheddar cheese (2 8-ounce blocks), grated • milk

Preheat the oven to 375 degrees. If desired, spray 2 sheet pans with cooking spray (I actually never bother). In a large bowl, stir together the flour, baking powder, and salt. Using a pastry blender or your fingertips, work the butter into the flour mixture until the mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Add the sausage and cheese to the bowl along with a couple of tablespoons of milk. Using your hands, work the ingredients together until well-combined, adding milk a tablespoon at a time to moisten the mixture so that you can get all the dry flour (you can also use a stand mixer with the paddle attachment to do this, but I just prefer to use my hands).

Portion the sausage ball mixture into tablespoon size pieces (I use a cookie scoop to do this) and roll into balls using your palms before placing them onto the baking sheets.

Bake the sausage balls until lightly browned, about 20-25 minutes.

Stack on paper towels for a few minutes to absorb excess butter.

Serve immediately or at room temperature.

If the lights are on, come on in!

For the Love of Little Drawers

by Terry Lea, Murfreesboro, Tennessee

Whether it's a simple wood recipe card holder, a sewing machine drawer or a massive library card file, there's something almost magical about little drawers. Maybe it's the appeal of bringing organization to our things - and lives - this time of year. Let's explore the history of things with drawers, where to find them and how to incorporate them into your home.

A brief history of drawers.

The history of drawers isn't as old as we might think; they date back only to the 17th century. Up until that time, items were stored in cabinets behind doors. Once dovetail joinery and other woodworking techniques and innovations were introduced, drawers picked up steam and they're still one of the most popular ways to organize and store all kinds of goods at home and in the workplace.

Sewing machine cabinets with drawers were introduced in the late 1700s. File drawers and filing cabinets came along in the late 1800s. Recipe cards (and boxes to hold them) came about in the early 1900s, after standardized measurements became the norm.

And my personal favorite? The library file cabinet, which was the brainchild of Ezra Abbott in 1860 and began to be adopted by libraries a few years later, just in time for Melvil Dewey to formulate his system for categorizing and cataloging books in the Amherst College Library in 1876. The last library card was printed in 2015.

The physical card cases range from small 2-drawer units to 100+ drawer cabinets. The most standard configuration is 18-drawers (three rows of six drawers) that could be stacked together. Globe-Wernicke was a leading maker of card file drawers along with many other office organizing cabinets - barrister's cases with sliding glass doors, accounting cabinets that were vertical and allowed ledgers to be stored upright, and of course standard filing cabinets.

Where can I find old drawers?

It's relatively easy to find simple single drawer items like recipe boxes and old sewing machine drawers at flea markets, estate sales and vintage and antique shops.

Card catalogs were often relegated to storage and sold off for pennies when libraries underwent remodels. For a while, these beautiful cabinets were plentiful and cheap. When a love of academia-related items emerged a decade or so ago, these cast-offs became coveted treasures, and they now fetch hundreds if not thousands of dollars, depending on age, size and condition.

Fair warning - before you gleefully snag a big, gorgeous old cabinet, consider how you'll maneuver it into your home. The largest and oldest cabinets are hefty, to say the least. Newer systems incorporated plastic into the drawers, substantially reducing the weight. We have a 60-drawer wood cabinet; even with all the drawers out, it's difficult to move, especially up and down stairs.

Using old drawers in your home

Apothecary and card catalog cabinets add an instant vibe to your decor, and they may get by on "good looks and charm." But most of us need and want our furniture to function. So consider using larger cabinets as a wine case (measure first, but many of them will hold a standard bottle of wine.) For the seamstress, artist or crafter, a multi-drawer cabinet is immensely practical and will hold your items in style.

Single drawers can be used to create table displays, hold keys, bottles and jars, or even small potted plants in your entryway, kitchen or bathroom. We have a wood whisky bottle box with a sliding top that holds our television remotes on our covered porch and keeps them safe from the occasional blowing rain - since it's a new-ish box (and can be replaced), we aren't too worried about preserving it.

Caring for your vintage and antique drawers

As with any wood items, if you want them to last, keep them away from moisture and direct sunlight. If they were coated with shellac, you may need to eventually re-finish it in order to preserve its color and patina. We personally don't recommend painting old catalogs. But if yours is beyond redemption, painting is an option if refinishing is not.

Terry Lea and Sherri Brown were flea-market-going-friends before they made their shared hobby into a full-fledged business by opening Re-InVintage in Murfreesboro, Tenn. Be sure to check out all their fantastic finds at 3781 Franklin Rd., Murfreesboro, TN.

THE REFINDERY ON McCALLIE

Eclectic & Vintage Decor & More

By Maxine B Jones, Ocoee, Tennessee

The Refinery on McCallie's vendors will be bringing in and staging their booths with some of their best vintage and eclectic finds for January 2024! Owner Carol Ellis told me their booth dealers buy and collect all year, especially in the late fall, getting ready for revamping for the new year ahead. Now 2024 is here, and I'd advise you to plan a trip to The Refinery at 1300 McCallie Avenue in downtown Chattanooga, Tenn., ASAP! The Refinery has 16,000 square feet of floor space, and every nook and cranny will be filled with amazing and beautiful finds. There'll be vintage, primitives, antiques, mid century modern, industrial, country and more to help create a blended or eclectic look or any style you envision.

Carol said they have close to 75 vendor booths, and every one of them will be different; each representing the taste, ideas and love of their hunting and collecting. There's a vendor who loves educational items like antique and vintage maps, globes, science lab pieces and other school items. There's a couple of vendors who find the best vintage clothing items and accessories. Another vendor takes jeans, jackets and tops and adds buttons, jewelry, crosses, fabric-designed items, and completely restyles the original to gorgeous designs that everyone loves. There's a lot of chairs from different eras, some very ornate and others with beautiful tapestry. These are very odd and rare, and it's worth the drive to check them out. There's industrial pieces, numerous vintage door knobs, plates, and cabinet pulls; also, vintage mitered hardware. There's beautiful vintage lighting, lamps and chandeliers; some of these came from local historic homes or estates.

The young adults and first collectors are excited about the uranium glassware that glows when a light is shined on it. Ask to see those special items. One of Carol's favorite items to hunt is signage. She loves all kinds of signs, and you'll not be rooms. There'll be some great garden decor such as planters, pots, outdoor containers, and lovely accessories. They have a set of vintage doors from a church in the area, and some beautiful stained glass pieces. There's lots of architectural items for you to add to your decor. The many rare and unusual pieces of furniture, small tables, metal items, glassware and small accessories give you everything you need to mix and blend for an eclectic look.

Today's buyers are looking for cool items from different places and time periods to update their decor to create an element of surprise and often a show-stopper home space. The Refinery on McCallie is certainly the place to hunt for those show-stopper one-of-a-kind selections. It's where customers return time after time, often with friends and relatives, so they too can experience a wow moment of surprise and excitement at the abundance of amazing finds at one store!

Carol and Rick Ellis and their vendors hope you enjoy shopping with them and let them know if there's something particular you collect or searching to find. They plan on having several events in 2024, including staying late on Friday once a month. Watch their FaceBook page for spring open house and other sales events. Carol and Rick wish everyone a very Happy 2024 New Year.

disappointed at what you see looking up high and low on walls and ceilings; some of it is local signage. Even their bathroom walls are covered, so don't miss the signs!

Another of her favorites is gardening finds, and Carol will have a surprise for you in the spring; a special area will offer something for everyone who loves gardening or garden

COME CELEBRATE FOUR YEARS AT GRIT & GRACE MARKET

by Maxine B Jones, Ocoee, Tennessee

Get ready to celebrate with Brandon and Melody Miles at Grit & Grace Market as they put the 4th year in their history book! Grit & Grace Market, located in the Old Woolen Mill at 445 Church St. SE, has brought a new and exciting business to downtown Cleveland, Tennessee. Over the last four years they have welcomed a huge variety of markets, from food, boutiques-with both infant, toddler and adult apparel, vintage and antique furniture and decor, very gifted artisans from painters to photographers, designers of caps, soaps, candles, signage, wood products and much more. Each vendor has their own small shop within Grit & Grace Market, and must agree to special guidelines established by the owners.

When you enter Grit & Grace Market, you are met with an aroma of coffee, lattes, hot tea and other drinks, plus the sweet bakery treats of the day from another business called First Bloom Coffee & Bakery. You can take your time browsing and shopping inside the market, knowing you can satisfy your hunger or need to have a drink just outside their doors.

Grit & Grace has come a long way from the task of renovating for over a year in preparation of getting open, to creating a beautiful showplace for its small shop owners. The owners have been creating and implementing some wonderful ideas to bring other markets, as well as customers who love to shop and participate in their fun events every year. They have four outdoor market events each year, bringing a huge variety of vendors setting up booths outside to sell their products. They have special games where there's always winners of great products and gifts, and I'm sure they already have a few more ideas to pull out of their sleeves in 2024. Follow and like them on FaceBook, and see their updates almost daily.

Be sure to visit Grit & Grace Market on Saturday, Jan. 20, 10-6, and enjoy the great sales, giveaways, hot chocolate and charcuterie board snacks. Wish them Happy 4th Birthday, and tell them you heard about them in the Busy Bee Trader. For details regarding the first market in 2024, call 423-790-0503.

Heritage Antiques Celebrates 1st Year!

By Maxine B Jones, Ocoee, Tennessee

Heritage Antiques will celebrate one year since they opened their doors at 115 East Madison Street in downtown Athens, Tenn. Owner Nancy Proffitt and her daughter Sarah have been very busy their first year promoting the store, holding special events with drawings for cash, community projects and open house, and they also took time for some special classes. They are planning to do a lot more for 2024; most important is to get visitors in the door to see all the wonderful treasures inside. Once in this quaint shop, you will enjoy the atmosphere and the interesting layout of this historic house that is beautifully staged with antiques, primitives, vintage, country decor and so much more.

Nancy has collected and picked for many years, and I love it when she shares some her stories about picking as well as rock hunting! She loves to create beautiful jewelry using cut stones, silver spoons, copper wire and other natural specimens that have wonderful characteristics, and will make a one-of-a-kind piece of jewelry.

Since January is their first business birthday, they will be offering special discounts of 20% off on all their Fenton glass and dolls of all kinds. This sale will start Tuesday, Jan. 2 and end Jan. 31, 2024. They have some beautiful selections of Fenton glass in many colors and designs, most of it is quite old. There are numerous dolls from antique, hand sewn, special edition Barbies in boxes, figurines and others. You will receive 20% off the purchase of any of these items. They opened Heritage Antiques in the same location that Junktiques was located for a number of years. Nancy had a large booth with that store, and when it's owner decided to close, Nancy had the opportunity to make a long-awaited dream come true.

Her daughter is an amazing artist and loves antiques, and together they began a new adventure. She and her mother treasure the memories and passion Sarah's father, the late Cecil Proffitt made with them over the years. Sarah said her dad and mom began teaching her about antiques and collecting at a young age, and with their interest, passion and love for history of times past, it just came natural for her to love and enjoy the hunt and sharing as well. Sarah hopes to schedule several art classes in 2024, teaching different painting techniques for beginners and advanced students.

Be sure to check out the unique smalls, special decor and awesome framed prints and paintings throughout the store. They have several booth vendors who share a passion for vintage and decor, and offer beautiful furniture, fine milk glass, antique jadeite, lamps, collectibles, tools, old bottles and great vintage golfing memorabilia. If you're interested in a booth, put your name on their list. Heritage Antiques is in an excellent location, just a half block past the McMinn County Courthouse. Stay on Madison Street and look for the large sign in front of the shop on the right just past the large parking lot. When you visit them in Downtown Athens, Tenn., be sure to tell them you read about them in the Busy Bee Trader.
